

Creating a Problem

To create a word problem, start by analyzing how you would solve it on your own. Use the provided data to formulate a question, and determine the best method or solution to arrive at the answer.

Example:

156 tons of total garbage collected; 3.25 tons per truck; total number of trucks used?

Example:

156 tons of total garbage collected; 3.25 tons per truck; total number of trucks used?

Answer:

Total of 156 tons of garbage collected. Each truck contains 3.25 tons. What is the total number of trucks used?